Obtaining the Blue Card

*) Citizens of the United Kingdom, USA, Australia, Canada, Israel, Japan, New Zealand and South Korea do not need a visa to travel to Germany. It is however recommended to apply for an employment visa as it allows you to work immediately upon arrival.

Persons who have already been in the possession of an EU Blue Card issued by another member state of the European Union for at least 12 months can enter Germany visa-free and submit the application for an EU Blue Card after having entered Germany. This application must be submitted to the corresponding Foreigners authority within one month after entering Germany.

Processing time

Immigration service approves and issues the EU Blue Card within days to weeks, depending on the backlog of applications. Maximum processing time is three months.

Duration of validity

The EU Blue Card is issued for a maximum term of four years. The job contract term is leading for the initial term of the EU Blue Card. The EU Blue Card will indicate an additional three months in the end date. The card can be renewed multiple times.

Minimum employment contract term for the EU Blue Card is six months.

Changing jobs

In the first 12 months employment, authorization needs to be acquired from the immigration services to change jobs within Germany. After 12 Months the card holder is allowed to take up employment in another Blue Card issuing country.

In case of unemployment, the Blue Card remains valid for three months enabling the holder to find a new job, and six months if you had the Blue Card more than two years. The EU Blue Card holder shall communicate the beginning of the period of unemployment to the competent authorities of the Member State of residence, in accordance with the relevant national procedures.

Family reunification

Spouse and siblings (under 18) may join the Blue Card holder. They do not have to meet the requirements for the blue card. Visa for spouse and children may be issued upon issuance of a national visa to the (prospective) Blue Card holder, so they can travel together. Consult German diplomatic mission for details on issue dates.

Self-employment

Under certain circumstances the Blue Card holder can start activities as an entrepreneur or self-employed person.

Key advantages of EU Blue Card Germany for its holder:

- Permanent residency after 33 months. If you can prove that your acquired language skills comply with level B1 of the Common European Reference Framework for Languages (CEFR), you can obtain your permanent residence permit after 21 months.
- The EU Blue Card entitles the holder to spend visa-free periods of up to 90 days within a 180-day period in the other Schengen States for the purpose of tourism and limited business activities as well. Holders of an EU Blue Card can enter another Member State without a visa after 12 months and apply for the EU Blue Card of that Member State within a period of one month.
- Stay in non-EU countries for up to 12 consecutive months without your Blue Card expiring. This provision also includes family members.
- The spouse of the Blue Card holder is granted work authorization.
